Comments:

Encompassing more than three million acres, the Custer Gallatin National Forest in Montana is a stronghold for iconic wildlife species like grizzly bears, gray wolves, bighorn sheep, mountain goats, and moose, which are very sensitive to human disturbance and development, and are teetering on the brink.

For heavens sake -- this is the Creator's world, not yours or mine -- please be stewards and do the right things to protect the wilderness and wildlife for the sake of future generations and for the sake of our national soul. Destroying nature instead of protecting it is just plain wrong, and no excuse will make it anything else.
