Comments:

This agreement reaches a down-to-earth and feasible agreement to address the imminent challenges facing the delicate wildlands surrounding the booming Gallatin area. None of the propositions listed in the document are unprecedented (i.e. implementing time-share trails, halting construction of new roads/motorized pathways, enforcing zoning, or pass systems for public access), and the urgency to generate revenue to support public interest in the wildlands is a suitable consideration. The focuses in this proposition reasonably address rising interest in conservation for public use as well as the protection of the inherent value of our natural context in greater Montana.
