

I was born and raised in central Minnesota. I grew up with many awesome wilderness experiences with canoeing and camping. These experiences gave me memories that will last a lifetime, but there is something that MN ~~doesn't~~ doesn't offer: mountains. Every time I make it out west (as often as I can) they take my breath away. From an outsider's point of view mountains are a privilege and a treasure that should be protected as much as possible. I'm so appreciative of the trails and campgrounds that Montana offers, made possible by the work you do. I ask that the preservation of this land remains a priority so I can continue to ~~travel~~ travel here and eventually share it with my kids.
