Comments:

Wolves are essential to our ecosystem. By preying on egregious animals like elk, deer and caribou, wolves whittle down the number of these animals who are destructive to forests and who multiply quickly.

Aside from minimizing these overpopulations of deer and elk (reducing the risk of starvation in the winter months) this helps humans, too.

Deer and elk carry diseases like anthrax, Lyme disease and tuberculosis. These diseases can be easily transmitted to humans causing epidemics.

Please do not murder our wolves.

There are ways to coexist with wildlife.

If we just plan instead of kill.

Do not be misled by lazy ranchers who are cowardly and just look for any chance they get to flex their psychotic "muscle" just to kill a defenseless animal.
