Thank you for your efforts to protect and preserve our public lands. I'm writing to urge the CGNF to maintain high standards for the wildness of wilderness including the ban of mountain/snow bicycles in the wilderness areas and stricter protection of wildlife. When we go into the wilderness, we're exiting our human-proof safe zones and entering a territory that belongs equally to animals and humans. Not only do we need to be safe ourselves but we need to protect grizzlies and other animals in the wilderness zones. Imagine if I went into your private property when you're relaxing and gardening and zoomed by you at 20 miles per hour. That sounds very stressful. Now imagine every mammal and critter in the woods feeling that same stress. They already have lost so much from human encroachment. Let's do the best we can to keep what's left in Amerika wild.
